

Overview

My heartfelt “thanks” goes to my sponsors (Autobahn Premier Service, Corbeau, SCR Performance, and Signs-By-Tomorrow) for all their support during what turned out to be an absolutely fantastic (and successful) 2006 season. In my first full year of Solo II competition I won 4th place behind a BMW M3, a Chevy Camaro SS, and a Mitsubishi Evolution MR – a full 6 places higher than the previous year. I also attended my first road-course event – High Performance Driving Experience (HPDE) – at Motorsports Park Hastings (MPH) in Nebraska hosted by the National Auto Sport Association. The experience has shaped the direction the build of the car will take, as well as realigning the priorities for attending events this year (see the 2007 Goals section below).

Again, many thanks go to my sponsors for their help in making the 2006 season such a success!!

2007 Goals

In July of 2006, I watched the U.S. Touring Car Championship (USTCC) race held in Miller Motorsports Park, UT, on Speed and instantly knew what my long-term goal with my car would be – to go wheel-to-wheel racing. Attending the HPDE at MPH in October, my first, confirmed this desire. The overarching goal for 2007 is to earn my wheel-to-wheel competition license through NASA, and have my car prepared for the German Touring Sportscar Challenge for the 2008 season. Specifically, however, the goals for this year are:

- Earn my competition license
- Prepare the car for wheel-to-wheel racing, which includes:
 - Removing the interior, heating core, and air conditioning
 - Installing a cage to meet NASA Club Code & Regulations (CCR)
 - Installing a fire suppression system
 - Ensure all equipment is FIA certified
- Continue to attend HPDEs to gain experience
- Attend racing schools as necessary to earn my license
- Garner more sponsorships to help offset the cost of travel, additional equipment and tires, and entry fees

Thanks again to everyone who has supported me in my racing endeavors: my sponsors Autobahn Premier Service, Corbeau, SCR Performance, and Signs-By-Tomorrow, my friends who have helped me put and keep my car together, fellow competitors, and my wife and family – without whom I would never be able to do this.

Thank you!
